Campaigns in Boldomatic

A channel within Boldomatic groups a set of posts and users to a specific brand, company, or user-group. Each channel can be individually customized and branded through a set of parameters, and content that is generated through a channel is permanently flagged with the channel's ID.

Campaigns enable you, the channel owner, to easily create promotions and activities around your channel. You can run up to three campaigns simultaneously, and can update the campaigns at any time by yourself using the Boldomatic CMS.

This document will help you get started with creating and managing your own campaigns. For more details on Boldomatic channels, please see the «Boldomatic Channel Guide».

Managing Content

Selecting the «Content» menu on the left will show you all the pages your account has access to. These can be generic pages, articles, start screens, or campaigns. Any page can contain subpages - similar to files and folders on your computer.

When a page is selected, you can manage the page through the «Page Tools» and «Content Tools» sidebar, where you can rename, remove, duplicate, and add new content elements. Any changes you make to a page will require the «Save» button for changes to take effect. Note that many channel and campaign features are cached by our servers and may take a few minutes to go live.

All pages on Boldomatic are fully responsive – meaning the pages automatically adjust for all browser and device sizes, whether it be a desktop computer or mobile telephone. This includes the layout of the teaser background image, which is automatically formatted to best fit the screen.

Selecting a good teaser image is important, as the image's sizes may be cropped automatically depending on the layout. Anything that may not be cropped should be placed in the center of the image.

Campaign

You can have up to three campaigns running simultaneously. These are displayed on your start page at the bottom along with all the call-to-action buttons. You can find and manage all your campaigns under the «Content» section. In the example below, there are three campaigns, two of which are published.

When you select a campaign, you will see some basic properties such as the title, it's URL, and default tags.

▶ BrowseUserFilter value

If specified, all the post listings for the campaign will be filtered to the username provided. This means that the campaign will only show posts that were either created by the user or reposted by the user. This feature allows for greater control over the content published to the campaign.
